USE OF ICT FOR THE REGISTRATION AND ASSESSMENT OF LIFELONG LEARNING

Definition

An electronic portfolio
(also known as an eportfolio, e-portfolio, digital portfolio, or online portfolio)

is a collection of electronic evidence assembled and managed by a user, usually on the Web.

Such electronic evidence may include input text, electronic files, images, multimedia, blog entries, and hyperlinks. E-portfolios are both demonstrations of the user's abilities and platforms for self-expression. If they are online, users can maintain them dynamically over time.

MISS FOX'S TEACHING PORTFOLIO

My name is Taylor Fox and welcome to my online portfolio! Here is just a little peek into my life and road to becoming a teacher thus far. This portfolio is dedicated to highlighting my professional learning and growth as a teacher. I am really looking forward to soon completing my post-secondary education and then having the opportunity to educate the next generation of children. Please take a look through the various pages to find artifacts, documents, and evidence of my growth and development made throughout my post-secondary career. If you have any comments, questions, or suggestions, please do not hesitate to contact me here.

Welcome

"The world is not dangerous because of those who do harm but because of those who look at it without doing anything." ~ Albert Einstein

This eFolio provides a reflection of my academic experience and evidence of competence gained in community health education as a graduate student in the Master of Public Health at San Francisco State University. You will be able to read my reflective statements and evidence of competency in each area of the Public Health core functions that pertain to Community Health Education. You will also be able to see and download my work, papers, presentations, and other related work.

I hope you enjoy my site, projects and work.
