Description of the training course

Which are the challenges a trainer, teacher, educator faces today? How can you motivate the learners? Can the combination of formal and non-formal education involve the learners into the lifelong learning process? Competence based approach, self-assessment and learning portfolios; how can you use them for your group of learners?

Aim

The issue of the competence-based approach is very important in Europe's labor market today. Skills being acquired through non-formal learning methodology are very much appreciated in almost all sections of personal and professional development. Many researches have shown that individuals who are having additional, to their formal educational background, skills and competences are having more opportunities in finding a well paid job and continue their life long learning path.

Social Youth Development – K.A.N.E.

This training course aims to offer clear learning results in terms of using non-formal learning methodology and easy-to-use tools at the field of the competence based approach.

More specific the main objectives of the training course are:

- To train teachers, educators, youth workers and trainers on the competence-based approach.
- To share non-formal learning methodology tools and experiences
- To increase awareness in the use of the 8 key competences and self-assessment.
- To offer the opportunity to the participants to create their own tools and learn how they can adjust the already existing tools in their daily work.
- To increase their ability in managing non-formal learning workshops and sessions.
- To acquire competences in motivating their trainees/learners/students, actively involve them in the learning process and develop the appropriate evaluation methodology.

The objectives of this training course are meeting the objectives of the Programme as “FORMAL EDUCATION MEETS NON FORMAL LEARNING, the competence based approach” is expected to increase the accessibility of learning opportunities for adults, to develop innovative adult education practices and increase the participation of educators, teachers, youth workers and trainers in life long learning as learners.

Methodology

During the training course we will follow non-formal learning methodology adjusted to the needs of the participants.

More specific we will use:

- Workshops
- Group Sessions
- Peer education
- Simulations
- Discussions
- Tool's practice in cooperation with local schools

The trainers will also give an input in non-formal learning process and they will make presentations of projects, which are combining formal and non-formal techniques.

Some sessions will be dedicated to the competence-based approach the link with the labor market and the e-portfolio.

Social Youth Development – K.A.N.E.

Presentation on competence-based certificates will take place and the participants will receive reading material on how to develop competence-based self-assessment methodology in schools, youth work and other educational institutions.
